

SALE OF Tennessee Jersey Cattle, —AT THE— DR. E. R. W. THOMAS, { Of Thomas & Drane, } { Summerland Herd, } Clarksville, Tenn. Fair Grounds, Nashville, Tenn., FRIDAY, MAY 21, 1886, About Fifty Head of Young Cows and Heifers, Perfectly Sound and Healthy, of Unsurpassed Richness of Breeding and Individual Excellence.

In offering these animals, I can confidently say they are the best bred lot of St. Helier, 43, cattle ever put up at public auction, supported by such strains as Duke of Darlington, Victor Hugo, Roter, Alpha, and others equally distinguished. At the head of the herd stands WOLFE, 682, the strongest bred St. Helier bull living, supported by BLOSSOM'S PIG, 1170, by PEDRO, 3157, out of BLOSSOM OF MARYSVILLE, 1557, a grand-daughter of LORD LINGAL, 1028. Not an unsound or defective animal will be offered. The sale will be positive and without limit, and as the cattle will be sold under shelter, there will be no interference on account of weather. Street cars run direct to the ground.

My cattle can be seen the day before the sale, at the Fair Grounds. Parties attending my sale will have time to examine the animals in the sales (Campbell Brown and others) that come off a few days afterwards.

For Catalogues, address E. R. W. THOMAS, Cincinnati, Ohio, or E. M. HORD, Nashville, Tenn.

TENNESSEE Jersey Breeders' Sale! On Tuesday, May 25, 1886,

DR. WM. MORROW, Nashville.

Near Nashville, Tenn.
On the Farm of THOS. H. MALONE, Five Miles Out on the Harding
Pike, and on the Line of the N. & N. W. R. R., at Belle Meade Station.

Trains will leave the N. & C. Depot, for the grounds, at 9 a. m., on day of sale.

This is purely a Breeders' Sale and the animals offered represent the herds of the above gentlemen, from which the drafts are made. It includes the blood of NOBLE, 104; KIE-DIVE, 105; P. S. his son, TORMENTOR, 333, and grand-son, TOLTEC, 633; GILDEROY, through his son, GOLD BASIS, 408; STOKES FOGS, 34; DIANA'S STOKES FOGS, etc.; also the blood of such cows as DUCHESSE OF BLOOMFIELD, 303; LANDSEER'S FANCY, 287; OONAN, 185; ROSA OF BELLEVUE, OXFORD KATE and IDA OF ST. LAMBERT, through her son, IDA'S STOKES FOGS.

The offering will be choice animals, and pledged to absolute sale without limit or protection of any kind, and will be sold regardless of weather. For catalogues address either of the above parties, or E. M. HORD, Secy, Nashville.

On the day following, the

SOUTHERN KENTUCKY AND TENNESSEE BREEDERS —WILL SELL— WEDNESDAY, MAY 26, 1886, —AT THE—

Union Stock Yards, Nashville, Tenn. SIXTY HEAD OF JERSEYS —FROM THE HERDS OF—

W. P. JOHNSON, Hampton Sta., Tenn. W. C. & G. E. GARTH, Trenton, Ky.
J. B. & W. L. TRICE, Hopkinsville, Ky. W. B. MATHEWS, Franklin, Tenn.
E. B. BUCHANAN, Faanklin, Tenn. H. V. GREEN, Hopkinsville, Ky.
R. P. MCCLAIN, Lebanon, Tenn. S. W. TALIAFFERO, Guthrie, Ky.
D. J. PHILLIPS, Bowling Green, Ky.

The animals we offer we have taken from the top of our herds. They are sound, in vigorous health, free from blemishes and not a defective animal in the lot, and every animal will be fully warranted by its owner as represented in the catalogue.

In our offerings the Comas will be represented through KHE-DIVE by TORMENTOR and KOFFEE, the most fruitful sources. Also REX, ALPHEAS, PANSEY, AL-BERIS, LADY MARY, VICTOR HUGO, LAWRENCE, LORD LAWRENCE, TOP SAW-YER, SIGNAL, CHAMPION OF AMERICA, GRAND DUKE ALEXIS, DUCHESSE OF BLOOMFIELD, EUROPA, LANDSEER'S FANCY, and all of the best known and most popular strains in America; besides some elegantly bred imported cows and heifers, tracing close to the most noted strains on the island. The offering will be made up of about equally of fresh young cows (many of them with good butter records) and yearling heifers and heifer calves. They will be sold absolutely without limit or protection. No postponement on account of weather. For catalogues address H. V. GREEN, Hopkinsville, Ky.

On the following day the Buenaventura Jersey Herd, A. G. GOODLETT, PROPRIETOR, Clarksville, Tennessee. —WILL SELL A DRAFT OF—

FIFTY-FIVE HEAD OF JERSEYS, —AT THE— Union Stock Yards, Nashville, Tenn. Thursday, May 27, 1886.

The offering will be made up of about 45 females and 10 bulls, descendants of such sires and dams as have made Tennessee Jersey Cattle famous throughout this country. Such as TOP SAWYER, 144; LORD LAWRENCE, 144; ALBER, 44; GRAND DUKE ALEX, PIERROT, RIOTER, ALPHEA, EUROPA, OONAN and others. The two service bulls, DERWOOD, 457 (son of Top Sawyer, 144, dam Oonan 22 lbs. 23) and EUPIDEE, Jr., a grand-son of the Duke of Darlington, 240, and Litchfield, 674, will also be sold, with a number of their produce out of most fashionably bred cows. Amongst the females to be sold will be found twelve grand-daughters of Top Sawyer 144, and of Oonan 185, and one grand-daughter and ten grand-daughters of the Duke of Darlington 240, out of cows that represent the most successful and fashionable strains.

These cattle have been on my farm since 1883, have never been exposed to any contagion of any kind, are perfectly sound and healthy, and not a defective animal will be offered. Sale positive and without reserve. No postponement on account of weather, as the sale will be made under shelter. For catalogues address A. G. GOODLETT, Clarksville, Tenn., or E. M. Hord, Secy, Nashville, Tenn.

A FANCY FROM FONTANELLE.

[Austin Dobson.]
The rose in the garden slipped her bud,
And she laughed in the pride of her youthful blood,
As she thought of the gardener standing by—
"He is old—so old! And he soon will die!"
The full rose waxed in the warm June air,
And she spread, and spread, till her heart lay bare;
And she laughed once more as she heard his tread—
"He is older now. He will soon be dead!"
But the breeze of the morning blew and found
That the leaves of the blown rose strewn
the ground;
And he came at noon, the gardener old,
And he raked them softly under the mold.
And I wove the thing to a random rhyme:
For the rose is beauty, the gardener time.

HOUSE KNOWLEDGE FOR BOYS.

A commendation of "Girls' Work"—A Mother's Forethought—For the Boys.
[Scientific American.]
The governor of Massachusetts, in an address before the Worcester technical school, said some words that are worthy of noting. He said: "I thank my mother that she taught me both to sew and to knit. Although my domestic life has always been felicitous, I have, at times, found this knowledge very convenient. A man who knows how to do these things, at all times honorable and sometimes absolutely necessary to preserve one's integrity, is ten times more patient when calamity befalls than one who has not these accomplishments."

A commendation of "girls' work" from such an authority emboldens the writer to add a word in favor of teaching boys how to do work that may be a relief to a nervous, sick, worried and overworked mother or wife, and be of important and instant use in emergencies. A hungry man who can not prepare his food, a dirty man who can not clean his clothes, a dilapidated man who is compelled to use a shingle nail for a sewed-on button, is a helpless and pitiable object. There are occasions in almost every man's life when to know how to cook, to sew, to "keep the house," to wash, starch and iron, would be valuable knowledge. Such knowledge is no more unmasculine and effeminate than that of the professional baker.

"During the great civil war, the forethought of my mother in teaching me the mysteries of household work was a sweet boon," as the late Artemus Ward would say. The scant products of foraging when on the march could be turned to appetizing food by means of the knowledge acquired in boyhood, and a handy use of needle and thread was a valuable accomplishment."

Circumstances of peculiar privation compelled the writer, as head of a helpless family, to undertake the entire work. The instruction of boyhood enabled him to cook, wash, starch, iron, wait on the sick, and do the necessary menial labor of the house in a measurably cleanly and quiet manner. This knowledge is in no way derogatory to the assumed superiority of the male portion of humanity; a boy who knows how to sweep, to "tidy up," to make a bed, to wash dishes, to set a table, to cook, to sew, to knit, to mend, to wait on the sick, to do chamber work, is none the less a boy, and he may be a more considerate husband, and will certainly be a more independent bachelor, than without this practical knowledge. Let the boys be taught housework; it is better than playing "seven up" in a saloon.

The Days We Celebrate.

[Harper's Bazar.]
It is certainly astonishing how very few national feasts we have on the whole—the more astonishing that in our great pressure of business, and rapid deed and thought, we need rest and relaxation more than most. Christmas is not universally kept among us, nor is New Year's; we make nothing of the 8th of January or of the 23d of February, a little bell ringing or a few guns compassing the most of our observance of those days; we forget the April day of the battle of Lexington till after it has passed; and we content ourselves with a sorry and solemn parade that can not be called a feast, if it can not be called a fast, on Decoration Day. The anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill has sometimes a good send-off in New England, sometimes not—somewhere anywhere else; and in truth we lie back and refuse all our strength for the Fourth of July, and now we celebrate that and now we don't. And when we do celebrate, we have not much idea of doing so other than with cannons and with flags, firecrackers and torpedoes, by day and the blue lights and their kind by night—music, flowers, and the gentler arts seeming to us of insufficient import to turn to exterior use.

The Effect of Rain on Appetite.

[Detroit Free Press.]
"You would hardly believe it," says a New York restaurant keeper, "but when it rains our receipts are a third less than on a fine day. I've been trying to understand the reason of it. It cannot be because any considerable number of our patrons are kept at home on account of the weather, for on inquiry I have ascertained that the rain does not prevent them from coming down to their places of business. They don't send out for their dinner or lunch, for then we would not suffer in the receipts. The only explanation I can think of is that rainy weather affects their appetites, and that they do not experience the same desire to eat as on a fine day."

Novel Method of Preservation.

[Chicago Journal.]
An eastern horticulturist says it is not generally known that gooseberries can be perfectly preserved the year round in common bottles with pure water. See that no broken or crushed berries get into the bottles, but all sound, perfect fruit; then fill up with cold well or spring water, cork tight and set away in a cool cellar. No sealing is necessary.

A Hard Day's Ride.

[Exchange.]
Sir Peter Lumsden, when ordered home from Afghanistan, had to ride all the way from Herat to Astrabad on the "rilest horses," along tracks almost impassable, and without change of clothing for days. In one day the general, who is over 55, rode over eighty-eight miles.

Dr. BIGGER'S HUCKLEBERRY CORDIAL

The Great Southern Remedy for all BOWEL TROUBLES AND CHILDREN TEETHING.
There are very few who do not know of this little man growing alongside of our mountains and hills; but very few realize the fact, that the little man growing alongside of our mountains and hills, which so many of us have eaten in most every shape, there is a principle in it having a wonderful effect on the bowels. Dr. Bigger's Huckleberry Cordial is the GREAT SOUTHERN REMEDY that restores the little one teething, and cures Diarrhoea, Dysentery and Cramp Colic.
When it is considered that at this season of the year sudden and dangerous attacks of the bowels are so frequent, and we hear of so many deaths occurring before a physician can be called in, it is important that every household should provide themselves with some speedy relief, a dose of which will relieve the pain and save much anxiety. Dr. Bigger's Huckleberry Cordial is a simple remedy which any child is pleased to take.
